Membership Information

The BTF was established in 1991 and aims to:

- provide people with the highest standard of support and information based on the best current medical evidence and patient experiences
- work in partnership with medical professionals and patients in order to facilitate a better understanding of thyroid disorders
- improve patient care by funding and supporting research and projects

What is the thyroid gland?

The thyroid gland is a gland in your neck. It makes two hormones that are secreted into the blood which control the body's metabolism and are necessary for all the cells in your body to work normally.

What can go wrong with the thyroid?

Hypothyroidism (under-active thyroid) – not enough thyroxine is produced for the body's needs.

Hyperthyroidism (over-active thyroid) – too much thyroxine is produced for the body's needs.

Thyroid eye disease – this affects some people who have an over-active thyroid due to Graves' disease.

Nodules or swellings – these lumps can stop the thyroid gland from working properly, or may be uncomfortable.

Thyroid cancer – this is rare, but it is important to ask your doctor to check any lump or swelling in your neck.

Thyroiditis – a usually temporary inflammation of the thyroid, sometimes occurring after pregnancy.

Can thyroid disorders be treated?

Yes – your thyroid disorder and many of the symptoms, too, can be treated.

How can the BTF help?

Our patient information provides comprehensive facts about thyroid disorders and practical guidance about managing your condition. We work with thyroid specialists from the British Thyroid Association (BTA) and the British Association of Endocrine and Thyroid Surgeons (BAETS) to ensure our literature is reliable and up to date.

Why join the BTF?

‘I really didn’t know what to do when I was diagnosed with a thyroid disorder. There was so much to take in and I found it confusing. I’ve been so grateful for the BTF’s help: the patient literature is a fantastic resource and it was comforting to speak to people who had gone through a similar experience and understood how I felt. Now I’m feeling better it’s great to have the opportunity to get involved and in some small way contribute to helping others in the future.’ BTF member
